The First Amendment: a reminder

To the press alone, chequered as it is with abuses, Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

The Northeast Georgian welcomes all letters to the editor from its readers. Deadlines are in effect for the midweek edition: 1 a.m. Wednesday for the weekend edition. All writing is subject to the following policy:

• Letters should be exclusive to The Northeast Georgian.
• Letters should include the writer’s full name, address and daytime telephone number for verification.

What’s news.

The Northeast Georgian is pleased to accept letters to the editor. Each letter submitted must be an original—please do not submit previously published letters.

• Letters should be 50 words or fewer.
• Letters may be edited for clarity and length.

Our opinion

We are subject to editing for grammar, clarity and appropriate content. Publication of any letter is the sole discretion of the editor.

What’s news.

Jeff Smith

The First Amendment of the Constitution of the United States of America reads: “Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.”

I was born in 1944, and I vividly remember my father reading The New York Times newspaper every morning at breakfast. The world was a very different place then. The world is a different place now.

The First Amendment: a reminder

The Northeast Georgian welcomes all letters to the editor from its readers. Deadlines are in effect for the midweek edition: 1 a.m. Wednesday for the weekend edition. All writing is subject to the following policy:

• Letters should be exclusive to The Northeast Georgian.
• Letters should include the writer’s full name, address and daytime telephone number for verification.

What’s news.

The Northeast Georgian is pleased to accept letters to the editor. Each letter submitted must be an original—please do not submit previously published letters.

• Letters should be 50 words or fewer.
• Letters may be edited for clarity and length.

Our opinion

We are subject to editing for grammar, clarity and appropriate content. Publication of any letter is the sole discretion of the editor.

What’s news.

Jeff Smith

The First Amendment of the Constitution of the United States of America reads: “Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.”

I was born in 1944, and I vividly remember my father reading The New York Times newspaper every morning at breakfast. The world was a very different place then. The world is a different place now.

The First Amendment: a reminder

The Northeast Georgian welcomes all letters to the editor from its readers. Deadlines are in effect for the midweek edition: 1 a.m. Wednesday for the weekend edition. All writing is subject to the following policy:

• Letters should be exclusive to The Northeast Georgian.
• Letters should include the writer’s full name, address and daytime telephone number for verification.

What’s news.

The Northeast Georgian is pleased to accept letters to the editor. Each letter submitted must be an original—please do not submit previously published letters.

• Letters should be 50 words or fewer.
• Letters may be edited for clarity and length.

Our opinion

We are subject to editing for grammar, clarity and appropriate content. Publication of any letter is the sole discretion of the editor.
Shamati’s journey continued by exploring the opportunities that were available to him. He had several friends who were interested in similar fields, and they met regularly to discuss their options and strategies. Shamati also took part in several discussions about the development of new programs and policies that could improve the education system.

Shamati’s dedication to education was recognized by his family and the community. His efforts were an inspiration to many, and he continued to work towards making a positive impact on the lives of others.